ICC Wales Newport, UK

INVITATION TO SUPPORT BPS ASM 2025

Dear Colleagues,

We are delighted to invite you to the 58th Annual Scientific Meeting of the British Pain Society, taking place from June 3rd to 5th, 2025, at the ICC Newport in Wales.

This year's Scientific Programme continues to reflect the multidisciplinary nature of our speciality and Society, offering an array of topical debates, lectures, workshops, and sessions designed to foster scientific and clinical discussions.

The BPS Annual Scientific Meeting will feature the latest developments and research relevant to the pain community, alongside discussions on challenging and controversial issues in clinical practice and healthcare policies. This event is a prime opportunity for professionals in the field of pain management to exchange ideas with leading researchers, experienced clinicians, and industry partners through various networking opportunities.

It is a great pleasure to be bringing the Annual Scientific Meeting to Wales after many years. The approach to pain management in Wales promoting holistic and community-based care offers valuable insights and inspiration for us all. In addition to the outstanding scientific programme, we hope you will take the time to explore Newport and its surroundings. From its stunning landscapes to its rich cultural heritage, the ICC provides a captivating backdrop for our meeting.

We look forward to welcoming you to a meeting that promises to be both scientifically enriching and culturally inspiring.

Sincerely,

Professor Roger Knaggs
BPS President

Professor Ed Keogh
Scientific Programme Committee Chair

ABOUT BPS

The British Pain Society is the oldest and largest multidisciplinary professional organisation in the field of pain within the UK. Chronic pain is suffered by over a third of the population. It is commonly distressing and commonly highly disabling. It is devastating for individuals who suffer. Many cannot work and lose their jobs.

Treatment of pain is a fundamental human right, yet sadly there is an enormous gap between the care people require and what happens in practice. We also do not know enough about the cause and treatment of pain. Our alliance of professionals works collaboratively with patients and industry partners to advance the understanding and management of pain. We strive to reduce the suffering of people enduring daily pain.

Our multidisciplinary nature is pivotal in making The British Pain Society a uniquely relevant representative body on all matters relating to pain.

The Society was first registered as a charity on 29 November 1979 as the Intractable Pain Society of Great Britain and Ireland with a membership limited primarily to anaesthetists working in pain clinics. Over time, the membership of the Society became increasingly multidisciplinary and in 1988, the Society changed its name to the Pain Society. From this point until mid 2004, the Society's membership and activities continued to grow.

In May 2008, The British Pain Society also became a charity registered in Scotland.

Today the British Pain Society has a membership of over 800 and is a uniquely relevant representative body on all matters relating to pain.

The British Pain Society aims to promote education, training, research and development in all fields of pain. It endeavours to increase both professional and public awareness of the prevalence of pain and the facilities that are available for its management. The Society is involved in all aspects of pain and its management through the work of the Council, various Committees, Special Interest Groups and Working Parties and via its publications, Annual Scientific Meeting and educational seminars.

SPONSORSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

The BPS 2025 Conference invites sponsors to participate in this important meeting. A commercial exhibition will be held as a central feature of the BPS 2025 Conference from 3rd to the 5th of June. To ensure maximum interaction between the industry and the participants, the Welcome Reception, breaks and lunches will all be held within the main exhibition area. Exhibition spaces are limited and will be allocated on a sponsorship level basis (detailed below) and within each level a first come, first served basis (multiple choices are available).

Suggest an Idea!

We strongly encourage potential sponsors to suggest their own ideas and/or packages for supporting BPS 2025. We are very open to additional sponsorship opportunities and would be happy to discuss additional tailored packages for sponsors with particular requirements.

Please contact us for further information!
